100% initiation

It sounded and looked like Squeal Day Sept. 7, 1961, but it was actually the first reunion of the 1961 Xi Chapter (Idaho) pledge class.

All 16 former pledges made it to the June, 1985 reunion which was organized by Jo Croy Vervaeke with the help of local alumna Norma Collyer Carter (Idaho). It was a special weekend at the chapter house, not just because of the chance to catch up with old friends, but because they were able to initiate the last two pledges in the class. Janet Josephson Palmer and Judy Sharp Watson had left school before being initiated, having completed all pledge requirements.

Aided by the chapter president and three other Xi Chapter collegians, Janet and Judy were initiated. Sharing that experience as somewhat mature Gamma Phi Betas set the mood for the weekend and brought the group closer together.

Parting on Sunday was difficult but the group hopes to keep in close touch from now on. The next reunion is scheduled for 1990.—Barbara Collins Hester

Opinion

Commitment. Involvement. Is there a difference?

Commitment can be defined as a promise or pledge to oneself, a group or a goal to do what needs to be done regardless of time, obstacles and limitations.

Involvement is temporary.

Commitment—leadership, faith, optimism, sincerity, dedication—is necessary to achieve success. And commitment on the part of each individual is necessary for group commitment and success.

Commitment or involvement. The future may depend on the choice.

Triumphs and struggle

Gamma Phi Beta Collegiate Vice President Randall Stevens Guerra (Cal. St.-Long Beach) outlines three chapters and the resources available to them.

Gamma Phi Beta chapters experience the peaks and valleys that occur with time—great triumphs and stress and struggle. What kind of help is available to these chapters?

Chapter 1: Located at a large, pro-Greek state school, it had for 20 years pledged quota, enjoyed close ties with alumnae, maintained good scholarship and benefitted from members who were well respected on campus. However, it has pledged far below quota for two years and the members do not know how to open rush. Chapter confidence and size, once so high, are fading.

Chapter 2: Located at a small private school with declining enrollment and fewer and fewer women going through rush, it has 20 women returning in the fall. The new college president is anti-Greek, and only two of the original five sororities remain. Alumnae, scattered over a wide geographic area, seldom meet.

Chapter 3: Located on a commuter campus, it recently won the Best Greek Organization Award and has a strong sisterhood aided by a helpful and positive alumnae advisory committee. Gamma Phi Beta is well known because of its enthusiastic members and their campus participation. Chapter programming, PACE, ritual, scholarship and philanthropies are all priorities.

What steps are involved in helping these chapters?

Grand Council reviews and evaluates every collegiate chapter three times each year to determine what help and resources are appropriate for each one. Through Province Directors' reports, Collegiate Consultant recommendations and personal contact, information is collected. The Gamma Phi Beta Minimum Objectives for Collegiate Chapters are used as a measurement of chapter health:

1. Reach a GPA equal to the all-sorority average on campus.
2. Pledge at least 75 percent of Panhellenic quota each rush.
3. Initiate 75 percent of each group of pledges.
4. File reports with Central Office on due date.
5. Be represented at Sorority Conventions and Area Leadership Conferences.
6. Keep all chapter financial obligations current.
7. Observe and follow all Gamma Phi Beta policies, university regulations and state and local laws.
8. Maintain ongoing and adequate programs in the areas of PACE, ritual, pledge development, philanthropy, public relations and campus involvement.
9. Maintain good relations with local alumnae, college Panhellenic and international Gamma Phi Beta.

Trends such as poor rush statistics, weak pledge programs, incidents of hazing, lack of chapter confidence, poor campus reputation and lack of communication or cooperation with alumnae on the local and/or international level can indicate looming problems.

While it is important that struggling chapters have available all possible Sorority resources, "International" cannot do it alone. Each chapter member must be committed to improvement and chapter excellence, be willing to accept assistance and be open to new ideas. "We've always done it this way" or "This chapter is different" are excuses that do not help a chapter that needs to change in order to improve.

Strong chapter leadership is essential and a will to succeed just can't be beat. If a chapter is willing to make use of the assistance offered, changes can occur quickly.

What, specifically, will be done to help the three hypothetical chapters?

Chapter 1: Its difficulty in pledging quota indicates the need for immediate help. An international officer specially trained in rush visits the chapter and meets with chapter members, advisors and the Panhellenic advisor. The chapter welcomes her and members talk at length about their lack of effective rush techniques.

Her report suggests the chapter needs help with conversation skills, party planning, membership selection and open rush planning. As a result, Grand Council appoints an International Rush Consultant (IRC). The IRC begins working with the chapter immediately, and after her first visit the chapter's confidence has increased. It helps to know that an expert is assisting with rush.

Chapter 2: With declining enrollment and an unfriendly administration, it presents a different and more difficult problem. Grand Council has been working with this chapter for some time but external conditions continue to worsen.

The Province Alumnae Director concentrates on building alumnae support for the chapter because it is demonstrably true that all chapters benefit from involved, caring alumnae. Every chapter needs alumnae assistance and Chapter 2 is no exception. The Province Collegiate Director will visit the chapter as often as necessary and otherwise stay in close contact to assist officers and members.

When a chapter is extremely small, each member must shoulder an increasingly large burden just to keep the chapter going. It is difficult for everyone. Because of its small size, financial responsibilities are also a problem. The Area Financial Advisor will work with the chapter to plan a realistic budget and scale down expenditures.

Gamma Phi Beta's National Panhellenic Conference Delegate will be in constant contact with the remaining national sorority and will attempt to keep communication open with the administration. A Collegiate Consultant will visit the chapter regularly to assist with membership recruitment and chapter management. She will help keep spirits up.

Closing any collegiate chapter is done only as a last resort after many years of intensive work. It is never an easy decision and it is never a surprise. If the campus situation grows even less favorable and the chapter is ultimately closed, it would be in the hope that the campus climate would one day permit the chapter to reopen.

Chapter 3: Lucky Chapter 3! It is riding on a wave of well deserved success and may be a Convention award winner. All members work toward the goal of chapter excellence and the chapter happily uses Gamma Phi Beta resources by communicating with and asking for help from the Province Collegiate Director, Collegiate Consultant, alumnae advisors and Grand Council. They are always looking for ways to improve and are open to new ideas. Grand Council will congratulate the members on a job well done and continue the regular support available to all Gamma Phi Beta chapters.

By expecting only the best from collegiate chapters, by continuing to closely monitor and evaluate chapter and campus trends and by fully using Gamma Phi Beta resources, more chapters will experience the peaks of chapter life. It is Grand Council's desire that the collegiate years be times of success and accomplishment for each member and chapter.

"Strong chapter leadership is essential and a will to succeed just can't be beat."
" 'We've always done it this way' or 'This chapter is different' are excuses that do not help a chapter that needs to change in order to improve."
"It is Grand Council's desire that the collegiate years be times of success and accomplishment for each member and chapter."

Gamma Phi Beta Foundation

THANK YOU!

The Gamma Phi Beta Foundation, thanks to the generosity of 4,258 members and friends, realized a $13,500 increase in donations this year. In a fiscal year that ended July 31, the Foundation received a total of $122,300. There were 140 additional donations during the year.

"Growth in giving and givers is so important," says Jennie Curtis (N. Arizona), Foundation President. "The Foundation depends almost entirely on contributions to finance its operations. Our goal is to continue to increase the support of our financial aid programs for members and our international philanthropy, camping for special girls. However, the future of the Foundation depends on the regular giving of our members and friends."

The Gamma Phi Beta Foundation is a separate not-for-profit corporation established to implement the philanthropic objectives of the Sorority.

Contributions within the last year enabled the Foundation to give 14 scholarships, 10 fellowships and eight emergency grants-in-aid, totaling nearly $30,000. In addition, more than 100 special girls from the Vancouver, B.C. area enjoyed two weeks at Sorority-owned Camp Sechelt under the guidance of volunteer Gamma Phi Beta counselors and staff. The Foundation also provided camperships to 28 alumnae and collegiate chapters who requested supplemental funds to add to their own local camping gifts. Through the growing campership program, 15 girls attended 32 local camps for a total of nearly $10,000.

The names of the members, friends and collegiate and alumnae chapters that contributed to the Foundation from October 1, 1984 to September 30, 1985 are listed on this and following pages. All gifts are recorded and the various categories reflect the level of cumulative giving since 1980. If you find the amount of your total giving inaccurate, please write the Gamma Phi Beta Foundation, 7395 E. Orchard Rd., Suite 200, Englewood, CO 80111.

Camp is 'satisfying' for alumna

"Camp Sechelt has certainly given me a new insight into children.

"It was very satisfying to help girls are so fortunate as myself. I know the experiences that we offer the campers are deeply appreciated and will never be forgotten. In some cases, we are simply giving them a holiday, but in others we are enabling them to shed tremendous responsibilities and giving them the chance to be real 'kids.' They develop a close bond and there are lots of hugs."

Those are the words of Carol Caleo (Bradley), 1985 Camp Sechelt director. For most of the year, Carol teaches school in Moline, Ill. For the last two summers, she has devoted herself to Gamma Phi Beta's philanthropy, camping for special girls.

"I feel other teachers would surely benefit from Camp Sechelt too. I have come across many innovative ideas and activities that I can use in my classroom," says Carol.

Why did this Gamma Phi Beta decide to apply for the camp director position? "I applied because most importantly I truly enjoy working with children. It is fulfilling, exciting and always interesting. This camp offered a more relaxed environment than a classroom." She encourages other alumnae and collegians to spend a summer at Camp Sechelt.

"I am very proud of the Sorority for sponsoring such a worthwhile philanthropy," she adds. "Our efforts really make a difference for these girls. That is why it is so important that Camp Sechelt receive the support of all Gamma Phi Beta members and chapters."

Carol Caleo helps a student in her classroom.

Phi bridge players 'bid' scholarship

Here's one for Gamma Phi Beta's Record Book:

Washington University Phi Chapter's "Dutch Bridge Club," organized in 1930, is still going strong after 55 years. Though its 14 original members have dwindled to 12, the group meets the last Thursday of each month for sociability and card playing now scored by a spirit of giving. Each month players contribute $1 each to a charity fund. This year they elected to give $200 to the Gamma Phi Beta Foundation for scholarships.

In mailing their check, Phi's golden girls challenge other Gamma Phi Beta bridge players to do the same. Says a group spokeswoman, "there have to be literally hundreds of such clubs around the country and Canada. There must be a half-dozen here in St. Louis alone. This could add up."

Adopting a name from the fact all members are either of German descent or married to Dutchmen, the group began playing for charity instead of prizes about eight years ago. When member Virginia Ens Crossman died, a gift went to the Heart Fund; the Diabetic Association received a memorial for Ruth Waldbauer Mueller.

Regular dues-paying members of the St. Louis Alumnae Chapter, these wearers of the Golden Crescent number three Merit awardees among their group: Christine Chapin Rapp, Marguerite Van Booven Fleck and Harriet Schulz McMillan. They are best known for their loyal kitchen duty at alumnae meetings and Phi rush parties over many, many years. "We just love to 'play' together," quips one. — Geraldine Epp Smith (Missouri)

Alpha Zeta Campership

Alpha Zeta Chapter at the University of Texas has established the Johnson-Bristol-Counihan Campership Award honoring three alumnae who worked on the house building and renovation project and serve on the house corporation board. They are Juanita Johnson, Valarie Bristol and Joanne Counihan.

The award will enable one special girl to attend a local camp each year. The first scholarship was given to a child who attended Camp Sonita, a camp for children with cystic fibrosis.

Camp is more than mosquitoes

Dear Sisters,

You are not going to believe what I'm doing right now. I'm sitting in a pup tent writing this letter by flashlight because I never want to forget the experiences I've had the past few weeks.

I'm sure that I have been responsible for the annihilation of more than 100 mosquitoes, not counting the 15 bites that I've just counted on my feet. Then there are those bee stings which I got when I was hiking up the mountain. And that massive bruise I got when Kathryn was teaching me to fall out of a canoe Indian style.

Then there are my six campers who have shown me another part of the world through 10-year-old eyes. For instance, how to put up a tent faster and straighter than your 19-year-old counselor.

The campers are great. I love to see the transformation from the first day street-wise tough or scared kid to the third or fourth day 100 percent Gamma Phi Beta camper. It's neat when a 10-year-old girl looks up to you and says, "You know I'll be a Gamma Phi some day."

I've met six Gamma Phis and we are having a blast, getting along great! I admit I was scared about coming up here to camp and I didn't talk much the first day. Since then I've made up for lost time. We all work together and help each other.

Well, I need to get some sleep because tomorrow is another big day. But I want to add that despite the mosquito bites, Camp Sechelt has given me a lifetime of wonderful memories in a single summer.

Ellender Dickson Scholarship

Ellender Wills Dickson (Cal.-Berkeley) was an astute businesswoman who left a large portion of her estate to help other Gamma Phi Betas find their places in the academic and later the business world. The Gamma Phi Beta Foundation received 12.5 percent of the substantial estate. Eta Chapter (Cal.-Berkeley) and Beta Lambda Chapter (San Diego St.) benefited from the balance.

Mrs. Dickson lived in Pacific Beach, Cal. until her death in 1982 and was a member of the La Jolla Alumnae chapter.

The Gamma Phi Beta Foundation has established the Ellender Dickson Scholarship for members attending schools with a Gamma Phi Beta collegiate chapter.

Local Camperships

In 1985, the Gamma Phi Beta Foundation provided nearly $10,000 for camperships which supplemented support from local alumnae and collegiate chapters. Thanks to the generous contributions of Gamma Phi Betas, nearly 200 special girls enjoyed 1,500 days of camping last summer.

The chapters and the camping programs they fund are listed below.

Albuquerque, N.M.—American Diabetes Association
Alpha, Syracuse—Huntington Family Center
Ames, Ia.—Hawkeye Council of Camp Fire
Aurora, Ill.—Fox Valley Girl Scout Council
Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Camp Courageous of Iowa, Iowa Council of Camp Fire
Corpus Christi, Tex.—Camp Fire Girls
Dallas, Tex.—Camp Esperanza
Denver, Colo.—Mile High Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Council, Denver Girls, Inc.

A will for the ΓΦΒ Foundation

Remember your sisters in your will. This gift will carry lasting satisfaction because you will know you are helping countless women and special girls through the Gamma Phi Beta Foundation's financial aid and camping programs. Your support of the Foundation truly makes your will a testament to your faith in the women of tomorrow.

You may provide for the Foundation by making a new will or by adding a codicil to your present will. To be certain that your exact intentions are carried out, an attorney should advise you or prepare the will or codicil. You may make a bequest to the Foundation in the form of cash, real estate, securities or other property.

This language may be used in your will:

"I, _____, give and bequeath to the Gamma Phi Beta Foundation, an Illinois not-for-profit corporation currently having its principal office in Englewood, Colorado, the sum of $ _____ (and/or the securities or other property described herein, namely _____,) for the charitable and educational purposes of said Foundation."

Bequests can help the Gamma Phi Beta Foundation expand and meet the growing demand for financial assistance as costs of educational expenses and services increase.

Generous Gamma Phi Betas

Gamma Phi Betas have a reputation for caring and sharing with others. The Foundation enables members and friends to help Gamma Phi Betas complete their undergraduate and graduate degrees, as well as provide wonderful camping experiences for special girls. Four Gamma Phi Betas shared their reasons for contributing to the Foundation.

Doris Lea Koontz (Texas) is a member of the Founders Circle and is a 50-year member of Gamma Phi Beta. She lives in Jefferson, Tex. and is a former Province V Director.

"My husband and I enjoy giving, primarily to educational institutions, where we can do a little good," Doris says. "When I read in THE CRESCENT several years ago about the Foundation, the whole program appealed to me. My hope is that the scholarships provided by the Foundation are enabling Gamma Phi Betas who don't have the money to finish school. That is very important. I am also quite interested in helping special girls go to camp."

Rosetta Roadhouse Erb (Washington St.) of Olympia, Wash. and another

Founders Circle member, designates her substantial gift for financial aid. In the letter with her donation, Rosetta says, "Having served on the (Foundation's) Financial Aid Committee for a number of years, this area of support is very close to my heart. There is no greater reward than the education of our younger members. It is my sincerest hope that I will have the pleasure of continuing support to this worthy committee for years to come."

From Mary Mosher Winchell (Minnesota) is this note: "This check is for giving a needy little girl a camping experience. I am a 90-year-old widow who regrets not sending more."

Kathryn Stephen Wright (Syracuse) of Port Jarvis, N.Y. provided a unique gift to the Foundation even though circumstances prevented a monetary donation. "I am interested to learn that you include arts and crafts at your camp, and that some girls are not in their teens. I have written a book for leaders of children six to 12 (years old) called Let the Children Paint. My contribution will be four copies of it to give to four camp leaders of your choice."

Collegiate Consultants

What do they gain from a year on the road?

The trail of former Gamma Phi Beta Collegiate Consultants (CCs) leads from the far west cities of Seattle and Portland, east to Maryland, back to the southwest and New Mexico, and as far away as Athens, Greece.

Kim Wolfe

The 11 who responded to a query about the directions their lives had taken since CC days and what effect their year as CCs had on them all mentioned the ability the experience gave them to deal with all kinds of people, the growing up they were able to do personally while working with Gamma Phi Beta chapters, and the need to draw on inner resources. "I learned the meaning and importance of being my own best friend," is how Mary Neel (1981-82) describes it.

Another theme was a new openness to relocation, whether in their own lives or because of a husband's career change. Debbie Dykes Misiag (1980-81) left southern California for St. Louis, then married in California and after a honeymoon in Hawaii, she and her husband drove from California to Maryland. J. J. Stoll Kaelin's (1978-79) husband is an Air Force pilot, which means relocating every two to three years. "Gamma Phi Beta helps me adjust to new places and makes it easy to jump into the community's activities," she writes. The same thought is echoed by Mary Ruth Holloway Manthey (1976-77), who is open to her husband's transfers because as a CC, "I found out there is a life outside Minnesota and not a bad one at that!" After a two month European trip, Julie Woodall (1981-82) moved from Boise to Seattle where she found work as a sales representative with American Hospital Supply that took her to Kearney, Neb. Currently she is back in Seattle.

Colleen Sweeney Unterreiner (1977-78) writes, "I continue to be a woman on the move!" Selected as a presidential management intern with the federal government in Washington, D.C., she served two years there, and three weeks after her marriage to another intern the two headed for Athens for a two year tour with the Foreign Service.

Careers are as varied as the women themselves. Some found the CC section on their resumes to be a door opener, others had to point out its good points and some went into totally unrelated fields. Kim Wolfe (1978-79) counts herself "one of the lucky ones" who got her job working with designers and architects in selecting art for corporate buildings through Gamma Phi Beta connections (Judy and Bob Schumann, owners of Royce Graphics, Kansas City). Also an artist, Kim has sold her work to IBM and Hyatt Regency.

J. J. Stoll Kaelin

J. J. Kaelin feels her work with Gamma Phi Beta helped her tremendously in her job as sales manager with a radio station in Alamogordo, N.M., while Pat Merrill Kempthorne (1975-76) explains she has postponed career challenges for "dishes and diapers." However, she credits her CC job as being a large factor in getting her first job as field representative with the American Cancer Society. "The director was surprised to find someone with experience working with volunteers plus leadership training," she says. Colleen Unterreiner writes, "The gentleman I interviewed with in Washington took one look at my resume and said, 'What's this Gamma Phi Beta, Inc.? Looks like an impressive job you had with them!' What an opener for me to elaborate on the skills I had developed. I emphasized that it gave me terrific adaptation to mobility, excellent diplomatic and representational skills, strengthened my decision making ability and taught me a great deal about the management of personal and professional life." Mary Neel, who is an assistant department manager for Hall's in Kansas City, draws on her CC experiences for stamina and creativity.

Mary Ruth Manthey has established her own business as piano tuner and repairer. Finding herself near one of the few schools offering a long-term course in the subject, she enrolled and thoroughly enjoyed a year of classes, six hours a day, five days a week. She credits her CC training for giving her the courage to start a small business when she had no business background. "I learned confidence as a CC without which I doubt I would have lasted two weeks as a self-employed businesswoman." She built up a clientele during her two years in Minneapolis that she hopes to regain when her sojourn in Grand Forks, N.D. is over.

Terri Kennedy Briggs (1981-82), administrative assistant to the director of Health Services at Oregon Health Sciences University, claims the job of CC is so unique it is difficult for someone who isn't Greek to understand. "I feel the experience I gained during my

CCs—what they do

Gamma Phi Beta Collegiate Consultants are recent graduates who travel from chapter to chapter during the school year. They meet with officers and chapter members, help with rush, help colonize new chapters, answer questions and assess chapter strengths and weaknesses. They are motivators and leaders. They live out of suitcases and travel by bus, plane, train and automobile. They are Gamma Phi Beta representatives wherever they go. They meet many women with whom they share the common bonds of Gamma Phi Beta. And, they have fun!

year as a CC would have helped prepare me for just about any job if I were given the opportunity to expand upon what was written on the resume. After being a CC it's tough to find a job that will be as exciting and rewarding."

Mary Ruth Manthey calls it "the growing up process that must occur as a CC is on her own, making decisions, learning to size up a situation quickly and give the right advice—really gaining lots of independence." Mary Neel says she learned a great deal about herself, finding herself "thriving on the demanding schedule, the challenge to be creative and 'fresh' at every chapter. I received a great deal of satisfaction from seeing Gamma Phi Beta collegians gain new self-confidence when they saw how unlimited their potential was as a group. After all, isn't that what a sorority is all about? Individual growth through group dynamics." Debbie Misiag admits it is emotionally difficult to travel by oneself for five months at a time without seeing a familiar face. Balancing that is personal growth and learning about the country as well as the joys of meeting people from different parts of America.

Linda Daniel Johnson (1975-76), manager with an oil and gas company in Houston says, "The value for me was more intrinsic and intangible. The year gave me the self-confidence necessary to be successful at job interviewing, the ability to be flexible and cope with all new situations frequently and rapidly. I feel like I am drawing on these characteristics now as I try to combine the wife, mother and career roles and keep from going crazy!"

Mary Ruth Holloway Manthey

Kaye Scanlon Admire (1974-75) used her degree in psychology and the maturity gained through CC work to return to school to become an R.N. and work as a psychiatric nurse. "The CC experience has helped me deal with getting along by myself, and it taught me how to deal with others," she writes.

As Colleen Unterreiner writes: "My year on the road taught me the value of education. The doors can be opened if only you take the time to learn."

Alcoholism in the Professions

LeClair Bissell
(Colorado)

Alcoholism in the Professions, co-authored by LeClair Bissell, M.D. (Colorado), is the first "longitudinal" study (persons studied through time; in this case five to seven years apiece) of 407 persons, male and female, who are physicians, dentists, nurses and social workers. The book, "written for any intelligent layperson," also offers the first published data on alcoholic attorneys.

One year of sobriety was required so subjects might more accurately recall and report past events in their lives. All are members of Alcoholics Anonymous, chosen initially because as members of this group they were easier to identify, locate and interview, LeClair says. She also notes there is an overrepresentation of active and visible AA members from urban areas, since to interview small town and rural members would have involved more time and money. The sample is not random, not self-selected, nor necessarily representative of recovered alcoholics.

The interview staff is all recovered alcoholics, including the author who says she has celebrated her 30th year without a drink. She adds, "This illness nearly ended my life and has killed many friends and colleagues, some of them, of course, members of Gamma Phi Beta."

Alcoholism is a disease that typically is slowly progressive, episodic, shows marked diversity in related signs or symptoms and carries a high degree of social stigma, according to Dr. Bissell. An alcoholic suffers periods of remission and exacerbation as the illness appears static for months or years. But it usually gets steadily and slowly worse with the passage of time. Without some abrupt change or crisis (threat of job loss, an episode of public embarrassment or departure of the family), people will postpone action. Family relations are usually the first to be disrupted;

Dos and Don'ts

DO

- Try to remain calm, unemotional and factually honest in speaking with the problem drinker about behavior and its day-to-day consequences.
- Let the problem drinker know you are reading and learning about alcoholism.
- Discuss the situation with someone you trust—a clergyman, social worker, friend or individual who has experienced alcoholism either personally or as a family member.
- Encourage new interests and participation in leisure-time activities that the problem drinker enjoys. Encourage the drinker to see old friends.
- Try to accept setbacks and relapses with calm and understanding.
- Refuse to ride with the alcoholic who insists on drinking and driving.

DON'T

- Attempt to punish, threaten, bribe, preach.
- Shield the alcoholic from the realistic consequences of his behavior.
- Take over responsibilities, leaving the problem drinker with no sense of importance or dignity.
- Argue with an alcoholic who is drunk.

Alcoholism Facts

Assuming that professionals are at the same risk as other American adults who drink, roughly one in 10 males and one in 20 females will be an alcoholic or experience serious drinking problems, according to LeClair Bissell.

Surveys over three years at Southern Illinois University show that alcohol use interferes with the academic performance of one student in every five and that as many as one-third of the student body could be considered "heavy drinkers."

At the University of Illinois, 27 percent of the students responding to a 1982 survey said they had missed at least one class during an academic year because they had drunk too much. Nearly 10 percent had missed four classes or more.

According to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, "10 million adults and teenagers across the nation today live in a chronic state of 'mental, emotional, social, economic and family disorder' because they are victims of alcoholism. Since half to three-quarters of those who seek treatment recover or show marked improvement, alcoholism has become recognized as the most untreated treatable illness in America."

The points Dr. Bissell would like Gamma Phi Betas to understand most are:

- Alcoholism is a disease, not a moral problem—"one recovers from it but does not reform."

- Abstinence must be the goal of treatment, both from alcohol and all other mood-changing drugs of addiction.

- In specialized treatment settings, the prognosis is excellent.

- Anyone who drinks may become alcoholic. Well-meaning but amateurish home remedies from sorority sisters, spouses, family, etc., even though motivated by caring and compassion, are no substitute for expertise and usually serve to prolong the illness.

- Gamma Phi Betas concerned for parents, friends, husbands, etc. should set about learning the facts if they are to help.

other social patterns then follow, evidenced by minor accidents, financial indiscretions and health problems. A career or practice is often the last to go.

The disease is one whose hallmark is denial on the part of the alcoholic, and by his family, friends and colleagues as well. Its presence is acknowledged late, if at all. Those most closely involved are often the last to recognize it in themselves or others.

According to the study, alcoholics differ from asymptomatic drinkers in three areas:

- They are most likely to come from ethnic groups that tolerate adult drunkenness while discouraging children and adolescents from learning safe drinking practices.

- They are most likely to have alcoholics in the immediate family. (35 percent had one alcoholic parent).

- They had a history of antisocial behavior in adolescence (this demonstrated for men only; no studies exist for women).

Dr. Bissell says no one can discover an "alcoholic personality." Nor is any occupational or educational group more at risk or protected.

Drinking benchmarks to identify the onset of alcoholism are:

- The drinker who gets drunk with some degree of regularity.

- Three years later, drinking begins to interfere with life.

- Two years later, someone else expresses concern about drinking.

- One year later, start of personal concern.

When abstinence was maintained, suicide attempts, arrests and hospitalizations markedly decreased. Relapses are inversely related to years of sobriety and chronological age. Those who relapsed displayed the following attitudes:

- Wanted to return to drinking if it could be done safely.

- Thought an alcoholic could return safely to normal drinking.

- Alcoholism is primarily mental, emotional or psychological in etiology rather than physical.

Ideally, Dr. Bissell says, the alcoholic professional should be treated rather than punished, thus averting harm to colleagues, family, and patients or clients. Creating motivation is part of the "intervention-treatment" process, thus avoiding having the alcoholic hit bottom.

Of AA she writes, "Members do not refer to AA as a treatment (no expectation exists that the process should end or be completed at any particular time) although outsiders often do. It is a fellowship with little obvious power structure.

The patient is not regarded as being responsible for being an alcoholic. The AA approach is that alcoholism, like other illnesses, happens to people who neither want it, choose it, nor plan to have it. It is self inflicted, i.e., the alcoholic meant to enjoy drinking and stop before getting into trouble. By striking judgmental postures and assigning blame, we do not help the alcoholic; understanding the nature of alcoholism does.

Dr. LeClair Bissell, writer, lecturer, consultant and publisher, is currently studying other groups such as nuns, female doctors and lawyers, and male and female doctoral level psychologists. She received her M.D. from Columbia University where she is now a faculty member and is Adjunct Senior Attending, Medical Service, St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center, New York City.

Alumnae Chapter Minimum Objectives

1. Hold a minimum of four business meetings each year.
2. Collect international taxes and submit to Central Office by Dec. 1. Chapters formed prior to June 17, 1974 must have at least six members. Chapters formed after that date must have at least 12 members.
3. Pay the publications and forms fee upon receipt of statement from Central Office.
4. Elect officers and submit alumnae chapter officer list to Central Office by April 1.
5. Submit alumnae chapter president's report to Central Office by June 1.

Great for use by alumnae Panhellenics, campus Panhellenics and Offices of Greek Affairs! Circulate the pamphlets and make them available to high school guidance offices.

Introduce your legacy

A legacy is entitled to special attention during rush. She is not entitled to an automatic bid because she is a legacy nor is she required to pledge a particular sorority. Her wish is to be accepted as a member because of her qualities and not just because she happens to be a legacy.

Pledging qualified women is a shared responsibility of collegians and alumnae. They share the responsibility of promoting Gamma Phi Beta to the legacy without making promises that may not be kept.

Alumnae can help legacies by:

- sending the legacy introduction form to the appropriate Gamma Phi Beta chapter;
- promoting the Greek system and emphasizing the lifetime commitment;
- helping the legacy obtain recommendations for all sororities at her chosen school; and
- making no promises. Our collegiate chapters have the right to choose their own members.

Collegians can help legacies by:

- giving legacies special consideration and the courtesy of at least one invitation to a rush party, and
- being fair in setting membership selection standards for legacies.

Christine Cone and Traci Scarborough wonder if they will measure up as legacies in a future rush week. Christine is the daughter of Claudean Terrazas Cone (Texas Tech) and Traci's mother is Donna Snyder Scarborough, Chairman, Ad Hoc Committee on Legacies.

ΓΦΒ is an investment

The high cost of education may scare some students away from college.

Marian Marchiano (Bowling Green), a broadcasting major, deals with high tuition through financial aid, part-time employment during the school year and full-time employment during the summer. To make the most of her college years, she is involved in many activities. She is student government public relations coordinator, an orientation leader and a Faculty Senate student representative. Marian has been chapter pledge director and Panhellenic delegate.

Another Bowling Green Gamma Phi Beta, Leigh Hollingsworth, managed finances differently. She borrowed money from her parents to cover the cost of undergraduate tuition, and worked full time throughout her senior year to help pay for law school. Involved on campus, Leigh was founder and chairman of Student Legal Services and a student government and Student Court member. She served as New Member Panhellenic Council vice president, Panhellenic Greek Unity Cabinet chairman and chapter PACE chairman.

Many students may feel sorority membership is beyond their financial means. It is a major investment in learning, growing, loving and friendship. It may take a lot of hard work, but a sorority can be affordable. It is a major investment and one that will last a lifetime.—Susan Bell (Bowling Green)

Marian Marchiano and Leigh Hollingsworth are members of Beta Gamma Chapter.

Delta Rho Chapter at Dickinson elects an honorary pledge to serve as a motivator, and as a liaison between the pledge class and chapter. She works closely with the pledge director and attends both pledge and chapter meetings. She also advises the pledge class on special projects and events it plans for the chapter.

Scholarship awards were presented to chapter members on Founders Day at the University of Illinois. The chapter sponsored a women's football tournament at which T-shirts were sold, and one day visited a retirement home to play bingo with residents.

The week of Valentine's Day, California-Berkeley members were Secret Heart Sisters. Everyone received the name of a sister to whom she gave Valentine presents during the week. Identities were revealed on Valentine's Day at an ice cream social to which friends were invited.

Epsilon Beta (Alma) brought sunshine to residents of the Masonic Home by giving them Valentines. The chapter also sponsored a Christmas party for children from the local Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization.

Gamma Kappa (Kearney St.) held its annual Teeter-totter-athon fundraiser and celebrated Christmas with Secret Santas and tree decorating. Other activities were a dance marathon, participation in a blood drive and a formal dinner dance.

Because of its increasing size, the Colorado College chapter has reorganized its committees and has placed new emphasis on scholarship. Chapter members volunteer for the local Easter Seals Society.

Gamma Chi Chapter (SW Texas St.) competed at Chilympiad, San Marcos' annual chili cook off. Other fun events were dances and Parents Weekend, which included a mother-daughter luncheon and a father-daughter softball game.

After the chapter Christmas party, California-Santa Barbara members sang carols at Friendship Manor, a retirement home.

Moorhead State members participated in the alumni Phon-athon and a local food drive. They also had a PACE program on hair styles and makeup.

Mums were sold at Lehigh to raise funds for Camp Sechelt, and the chapter sponsors a Girl Scout troop. PACE programs have included pumpkin carving, standard transmission driving lessons and guest speakers.

A big and little sister pajama party and a Christmas party were two chapter activities at Nevada. The chapter also held a spaghetti dinner and dance as a fundraiser.

The annual See-saw-athon was a success for Theta Chapter (Denver), as was its participation in the Alumni Telefund. A new program for the chapter is fun-event-of-the-week at which members get together for a different activity each week.

Epsilon Chapter (Northwestern) sponsored Pledge Olympics as a fundraiser for Camp Sechelt. Contestants participated in events such as egg toss, orange pass and three-legged race.

Iowa State Gamma Phi Betas made Christmas decorations, Valentines and bulletin boards for a children's home. Other activities were Dad's Weekend, scholarship banquet and Waiter Appreciation Week.

Delta Nu Chapter's (SW Missouri St.) rush chairman sent the chapter a singing telegram which was aired on television. The chapter held a gift certificate raffle to raise funds so handicapped children could attend the circus.

Student Organizations Day and

Gamma Phi Betas from eight chapters attend Area Leadership Conference at the U. of Texas.

A fall day brings Gamma Phi Betas out on the front porch at Syracuse.

Greek Parents Day were events at Oakland. Chapter members went on a hay ride and picnic with Theta Chi.

Gamma Phi Betas and Kappa Kappa Gammas at Miami held a Key to the Moon dance, and the chapter held its own formal on a riverboat. Fraternity members, coached by Gamma Phi Betas, participated in a tennis tournament to benefit a home for handicapped children.

Delta Mu Chapter at Rutgers received a Panhellenic award for initiating the highest number of pledges. A revamped pledge program places great emphasis on scholarship.

Beta Upsilon Chapter (Kansas St.) sponsored Legacy Weekend, during which legacies experienced college life. Fundraisers are survival kit sales and a housemother kidnapping. Chapters pay a ransom of canned goods for charity to recover their housemothers.

ALUMNAE

Norman, Okla. alumnae and Psi Chapter held a joint fundraiser. Suzanne Williams Clark (Oklahoma) wrote an Easter bunny letter for children which was duplicated and colored by collegians and alumnae. Prior to Easter the letter was sold at a local mall for later mailing to children. Both groups shared in the profits and the camaraderie of their project.

State College, Penn. alumnae concentrated their efforts on the chapter at Penn State. Their September meeting featured a rush report from the Alpha Upsilon president and in October they invited the chapter to a "Color Me Beautiful" program to learn how to choose correct makeup and colors for skin tones. In November they observed Founders Day with the chapter, which presented a rush skit for entertainment. A spring brunch honored pledges and new initiates, and at another function they hosted chapter members and their mothers at a scholarship luncheon. The chapter had requested their mothers be invited because many mothers had expressed a wish to meet these women who had "mothered" their daughters throughout the year. To end the year, they feted the graduating seniors with a punch and cheese party, presenting each senior with a silk carnation and a calligraphy inscribed card welcoming them to alumnae status.

State College alumnae also invited the Alpha Chi Omega alumnae to tour an Ethan Allen Furniture Gallery where they viewed a slide show of Christmas decorations from the Washington, D.C. area. At another meeting they toured the Penn State art museum, viewing the Campbell Soup Company's display of soup tureens.

The Philadelphia West Suburban Alumnae Chapter celebrated its 50th anniversary with a banquet which featured reminiscences and a 50th anniversary chorus. Lib Robbins (Ohio Wesleyan) gave a fond tribute to founder Virginia Hildreth. Mary Jean Lauvetz Hart (Nebraska) recalled how it used to take her two and one-half hours to get to meetings. (She had to walk a mile to a trolley stop, take the trolley to the subway, transfer, then take the el to a fellow alumna's so they could drive to the meeting.) "We had lots of children at the time. Our eldest was eight when we were expecting our eighth, so coming to a meeting was the highlight of the month for me. The adult conversation was an oasis in a world of baby talk," she recalls.

Each member received a cross-stitched memento framed in gold and the men wore pink carnation boutonnieres. The history committee presented the chapter with a 50th anniversary scrapbook, and the entryway to the banquet room was lined with poster boards depicting the chapter's history with newspaper clippings and pictures.

Lincoln alumnae dug deep into attic boxes and closets to share Gamma Phi Beta memories with Pi Chapter (Nebraska) pledges. Many wore sweat shirts more than 20 years old. "It was a fun way to introduce the new pledge class to the lasting memories we treasure in Gamma Phi," reports Jo Anne Armstrong Bettenhausen (Nebraska). In the spring, Lincoln alumnae were guests of Omaha alumnae at a brunch and fashion show. Their Art Alley marked its 15th year as the group raised money for Gamma Phi Beta scholarships.

Evanston-North Shore, Ill. alumnae had their annual sale of Christmas greens to benefit Gamma Phi Beta Camp Sechelt and special education classes at local high schools. They also had a joint meeting with the evening auxiliary group and participated in a Panhellenic dinner. Two policemen presented a crime prevention program at another meeting, and three collegians from Northwestern presented a program on rush.

Houston's Gamma Phi Eye newsletter says "I never say 'No' to Gamma Phi—she didn't say 'No' to me." The chapter again participated in Sorority Sampler, a Panhellenic affair at which it sponsors a booth to raise money for the Easter Seal Society's summer camping program. Jams, breads, candies, pickles and craft items are sold, as are decorated baskets and handmade teddy bears.

Kansas City staged its 25th anniversary Antiques and Arts Show. Several former chairmen came from out of town for the gala preview party that always precedes the Show.

The Hartford County, Conn. Alumnae Chapter celebrated its first anniversary and set goals for the future of the chapter. The first newsletter featured a questionnaire around the theme Love, Labor, Learning, Loyalty in an attempt to discover members' interests in programs, philanthropies and other events.

Edie McChesney Ker's (William and Mary) slides of whales, seals, birds and scenery of Baja, Cal. entertained Northern Virginia alumnae. The chapter's goal is to earn $1,000 doing inventory for Bloomingdale's. Last year $835.02 was earned and all who participated received coupons good for 20 percent discount on all purchases made on any one day. A contribution of $550 was given to the Northern Virginia Training Center for camperships (including $100 from Gamma Phi Beta Foundation), $500 to Camp Sechelt and $300 to Alpha Chi Chapter at William and Mary. A successful crab feast during the summer honored area collegians.

Albuquerque's latest activity is Gamma Phridays, a dutch treat lunch at a local hotel the second Friday of each month. Alumnae make and sell jalapeno jelly each year and have a birthday club to raise money for the Albuquerque Hearing and Speech Center. Members, friends and relatives who sign up are sent cards on their birthdays. In gratitude for good health and good hearing, they are asked to send a donation to the Center.

Raleigh, N.C. alumnae invite any Gamma Phi Beta in the Triangle area to join them. They sponsored a campership for the Pines of Carolina Girl Scout Council for one week at either Camp Graham at Henderson or Camp Mary Atkinson at Selma.

North Orange County, Cal. alumnae helped Delta Delta Chapter (Cal. St.-Fullerton) celebrate its 12th anniversary, and held a first annual gathering with spouses and friends. They also went to a baseball game, helped with rush and had a craft night.

Her goal is laughter

Sydney Stoeppelwerth (Kansas) graduated with a B.S. in science and an M.A. in English language and literature. Until 1980, she taught in the Kansas City area and then decided to pursue a business and public speaking career. Motivation and communication is her key and if making people laugh is another goal, she has reached that too.

One thing to note about Sydney, but not to focus on, is that she has been legally blind since college. This is noteworthy only in the fact that Sydney is all the more inspirational to all of us. Not only has she made herself a place in the world, she has made the world a better place.

A list of her accomplishments would include her successes in the oil and real estate businesses, Phi Kappa Phi membership, work as a television script writer and teacher, recipient of the Pilot Club Woman of the Year Award in Kansas City and volunteering as rush advisor to Sigma chapter at the University of Kansas.

Of the many high points in her career, Sydney says, "Well, there have been several. Without question, learning to communicate with all types of personalities through experience, learning and tolerance is the first. The second, the experience of blindness. Of course I would prefer to see, but I have learned that blindness is far more frightening to see than to be. I have learned also that blindness is not a handicap; it is mental. Observational powers can and must exist. Nothing physical cannot be overcome."

As for her future, she plans to continue to enjoy life, people and experiences. She also plans to write an autobiography of blindness—not strictly her own, but the mental blindness of us all.

Sydney is an inspiration to all. She makes people laugh, and laughter, according to Sydney, is one of the things that makes the world go round. —Kristyn Wiggin (Kansas)

Archivist studies Methodism in Texas

Josephine Forman (Texas) has found work that is fascinating, demanding and never-ending in her post-career years. She is the archivist for the Southwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church, as well as for Travis Park Methodist Church, which has served San Antonio for more than a century.

Before retirement, Josephine had worked 35 years in the securities field. It is small wonder then that her talents were tapped by Christian Assistance Ministry (CAM), a local ecumenical group furnishing temporary aid to the needy. She was treasurer of CAM for three years until the complicated records could be put on computer. Then instead of leaving it all, she accepted the more physical and less glamorous task of working in the warehouse where clothes and food must be sorted and marked.

But the majority of her "retirement" time is spent adding constantly to her knowledge of Methodism and helping others seeking historical information about the denomination. She works primarily with churches in the conference in writing and updating their own histories, but she also is called upon by others seeking historical information about the area. Like all good archivists, Josephine insists on accuracy. For that reason, she expends much time and energy attempting to correct erroneous material that often creeps into semi-historical brochures.

*Josephine Forman

Because of the diversity of cultures in southwest Texas, her field is quite complicated. Her main responsibility lies with the roots of Methodism stemming from older parts of the U.S., but in the 19th century other congregations came to the area directly from Germany. The development of the several branches is sometimes difficult to separate.

When Josephine is not working for the benefit of the community, she finds pleasure in travel. Last fall, after a trip to Hawaii, she made her third trip to Hong Kong. —Zula Williams Vizard (Texas)

Olympia winner

Jeri Daniels (William and Mary) received an Olympia Award, which recognizes athletes who compete in the 31 Olympic sports. Presented to gymnast Mary Lou Retton at the same ceremony, the Olympia Award is sanctioned by the U.S. Olympic Committee and sponsored by Southland Corp., operator and franchiser of 7-Eleven stores.

Jeri was awarded a museum piece reproduction of a Greek amphora (two-handled vase) that was given to winners of athletic contests in the Panathaic Festivals held in Athens 2,500 years ago. The award is based not only on athletic performance, but also on "dedication to the amateur ideal."

Other notable Olympia Award winners include 1984 Olympians Greg Louganis, Steve Lundquist, Julianne MacNamara, Tracy Caulkins and Peter Vidmar.

A shotputter, Jeri is a four-time All American and was the national champion shotputter in 1982. Since graduation, she has earned a masters degree in education at James Madison University in Virginia, where she served as assistant track and field coach. She is now women's assistant track and field coach at Pennsylvania State University.

Alumna honored by OSU

Nellie Rushing Melton (Oklahoma City) has been named "Mrs. Alumna" by Oklahoma City University. Many alumni may remember her more as "Dean" Melton than "Mrs. Alumna" Melton, however.

She spent many years teaching at Oklahoma City University (OCU), first as a professor of English in the 1930's and 1940's, and then as dean of women. She retired in 1974 as professor emeritus of English and she and her husband have endowed the Nellie R. Melton Scholarship for OCU English majors.

During her career in education she also taught at Oklahoma A and M and the University of Tulsa. She spent eight years on the Oklahoma City Board of Education, serving as president for two years. Always active in the American Association of University Women, she was division president, and served on the board of directors of the Oklahoma City

Chamber of Commerce and the Oklahoma State School Board Association. She was also co-chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee for Educational Television in Oklahoma.

Nellie earned a B.A. from Baylor College with a major in Latin and English, and an M.A. from the University of Chicago in English language and literature. She did additional work at Oxford University and the University of London.

Her chief interests since retirement have been Gamma Phi Beta and the OCU Women's Club, a senior citizens retirement home for which she has been a board member for 20 years. Nellie and her husband, a retired attorney, have enjoyed extensive travel in Europe and southeast Asia, and "our eight grandchildren and their parents are of great interest and pleasure to us."

China without pandas

A very special "special" aired on PBS-TV is a documentary on China produced by Paula Lee Haller (Wisconsin), only the second independent producer to sell a program to the National Geographic Society.

"There was not one panda in the show," Paula says, stressing how she tried to stay away from stereotypes. "I was trying to break the image of everybody in Mao jackets on crowded streets."

Instead, she followed four Americans showing the world's largest country as it is being catapulted into the 20th century. It is a country of contrasts: mirror sunglasses and Mao jackets, lasers and abacuses, the beat of a disco tune and the wail of the ancient stringed er-hu.

No shots of the Great Wall, ping pong games, pagodas or bicycles for Paula. Instead her camera picked up an exchange student on spring break from Beijing Normal University as he traveled to a remote region to participate in a water splashing festival, a New Year's purification rite. She also filmed a journalist who is one of the first American reporters to reopen a news bureau in Beijing after resumption of diplomatic relations between China and the U.S., and the president of a Philadelphia footwear company that buys pig hide from the Chinese. He works out of his family's newly reopened plant that had been closed since 1949. Lastly, a school teacher married to a Chinese colleague is shown as she travels to a far-off province to meet her husband's family for the first time and is feted with traditional delicacies—moose nose and bear paw.

None of these people operated in China without difficulty. AP Bureau Chief Vicki Graham found her movements and access to people restricted. Her living complex was off limits to local Chinese; she needed official permission to travel more than 25 miles from Beijing; interviewees were carefully selected by Chinese authorities. Yet, she feels good journalism is possible in China.

Businessman Sam Goldstein found conducting business in China complex because of the numerous official tiers that must be negotiated and the government's attitude toward the world market. And teacher Frances Fremont-Smith and her husband had to be careful to conceal their courtship because it is not entirely acceptable for a Chinese citizen to be in love with a foreigner. The marriage had to be approved by the Chinese government, two embassies and the U.S. State Department.

Paula spent eight months shooting vignettes. Fluent in mandarin Chinese, she believed the film would help Americans realize the vastness and richness of China's landscape and people and wanted to show that an American can make it in China if one really gives it a chance. "People who don't want to live any other way should stay home," says Paula.

Paula came to her film career via an interest in Asian arts in which she holds a graduate degree from the University of California at Berkeley. After planning a number of museum exhibits in San Francisco in the last two decades, she realized the potential of film for recording such events and making them available to a wider audience. A film on Korean art she proposed to the Asian Art Museum in San Francisco turned out to be so successful it established her reputation as an important film artist on the Orient. Paula's third film venture was a spring festival of India in the U.S., a joint project of the Indian and U.S. governments.

She enjoys making documentaries the way she thinks they ought to be made: "I got rid of all those maps I hated in 'educational films,' "

Paula Lee Haller
(Wisconsin)

she says. "I want to make documentaries that work, and the challenge is to make them interesting."—Talie McKenzie

Festival director

Take 350 sidewalk booths manned by artists from all parts of the U.S. and Canada, 250 performing arts events, 10 indoor exhibitions, a program of children's art activities, mix in 250,000 people, and you have the Central Pennsylvania Festival of the Arts. Held each July in State College, Penn., the "mix-master" for this extravaganza is Lurene Jochem Frantz (Penn St.).

Lurene is in her eighth year as managing director of the Festival, the only paid member of a staff that coordinates more than 2,000 volunteers. She became involved in the Festival in 1968 as a volunteer, and later took over the reins from another Gamma Phi Beta, Mary Lyn Keat (William and Mary).

The 'foundations' of life

Men's underwear has come out of the drawer and into the public thanks to an innovative advertising program spearheaded by Donna Wolf Steigerwaldt (Colorado), chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Jockey International, Inc.

Donna grew up with the company when her father was head of Jockey, but she didn't assume an active corporate role until 1978 when her brother retired as board chairman.

Under a multi-million dollar program, plant facilities were modernized and jockey's eight mills reengineered and reequiped. A die-cutting process that stamps patterns like a large cookie cutter to ensure uniformity was introduced, and a plant in North Carolina was purchased to spin Jockey's own cotton into yarn. The sales force that operates in more than 100 countries was reorganized, and she insisted on improved quality and marketing in the sportswear division.

Donna Wolf Steigerwaldt
(Colorado)

"Just to illustrate what our sportswear was like," Donna says, "when one of our salesmen had his car broken into, the thief took the underwear and left the sportswear."

Determined to solidify and inand craftsmen vying for booth sites. Another Gamma Phi Beta, Mary Woodworth Pfeiffer (Illinois), records all the artists' checks.

In addition to her work with the Festival, Lurene finds time to teach a class in social usage on the Penn State campus. She is a Girl Scout leader for daughter Kyle's troop, and finds time to travel with her husband, Dr. John Frantz, professor of history at Penn State.

Lurene describes the Festival as a truly "town and gown" event. It is a combined venture between Penn State and the borough of State College, and takes places on several reserved town streets and on central campus. The academic and mechanical expertise of townspeople and faculty work together to make this one of the major events of the summer in central Pennsylvania. "And I just happen to be helping," Lurene says.—Vivian Doty Hench (Penn St.)

crease Jockey's share of the traditional market and expand into new ones, Donna took a long look at advertising strategies and increased the advertising budget. Enter Jim Palmer, baseball star hired as spokesman, to ignite the new advertising campaign that changed the image of men's underwear from stodgy to contemporary with a number of choices in color and style, a concept unheard of in the traditionally conservative industry. But Jockey had noted that 70 percent of men's underwear purchasers are women and the new campaign went after them.

Innovation was nothing new to Jockey, however. Founded as a small hosiery company in 1876, the Cooper Underwear Company, Jockey's corporate ancestor, introduced the first long underwear in America in 1910. A year later it was the first company to advertise in a national magazine. The first "brief" underwear was introduced by Cooper in 1934, followed by the first "boxer" shorts. Then came colored underwear, introduced in the 1960s when a salesman noticed it was selling in Europe like hotcakes. Resistance within the company and to salesmen was high at first, but since 1980 one-half of Jockey's sales have been fashion and colored underwear, a national lead position that is conceded even by its competitors.

Now that she is at the helm of such a complex organization, Donna says her life is not the same. She is on the road 50 percent of the time visiting plants and licensees in Europe and attending sales meetings. "I try to oversee everything that's going on at Jockey," she adds. A drastic change for a woman who re-entered the work force after 34 years. Since her husband owns a construction firm, she loves to say, "We're both in the foundations of life—Bill is in concrete and I'm in underwear."—Talie McKenzie

Elizabeth Wheeler Olsen

Elizabeth Wheeler Olsen, who served Gamma Phi Beta as Grand President from 1958 to 1960, died September 25, 1985 in Grand Haven, Mich. She was initiated at Beta Chapter at the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Olsen also served Gamma Phi Beta as Collegiate Vice President, Director of Finance and was a member of the first Gamma Phi Beta Foundation Board of Trustees. Her name is listed on the Honor Roll and Service Roll.

She was an artist and her work in a variety of media won her several awards. As fashion editor of the Grand Rapids, Mich. Herald, she did many of the fashion drawings used in the newspaper. She illustrated publications and painted portraits for Gamma Phi Beta.

Memorial gifts in Mrs. Olsen's name may be made to the Gamma Phi Beta Foundation Beta Chapter Centennial Fund.

Ruth B. Fox

Ruth B. Fox died Oct. 9, 1985. She was initiated at Northwestern University and served Gamma Phi Beta as Collegiate Vice President and Director of Expansion. Her name is listed on the Honor Roll.

She chaired the committee to raise funds to construct the Epsilon Chapter house which opened in 1927, served as treasurer of the Epsilon House Corporation Board and was a member of the Evanston-North Shore Alumnae Chapter.

She introduced and chaired the Expansion Gift Fund, and created and edited the Crescent News which was sent to university presidents and deans of women throughout the country to promote expansion.

Memorial gifts may be made to the Gamma Phi Beta Foundation Ruth B. Fox Scholarship Fund.

Spanning the years

Looking through the Gamma Phi Beta Alumnae Directory, I was surprised to find a member living in my hometown, Red Hook, N.Y. (pop. 7,000). Listed was Clara Ham Cookingham, Alpha Chapter, 1907. My mother told me Mrs. Cookingham had been the first graduate of Red Hook High School in 1906, and I excitedly called her and explained who I was. She was pleased to hear from me and invited me to visit.

I arrived at her house, an historic, old home on the outskirts of town, and was met at the door by Mrs. Cookingham, a lady with pure white hair and thick eyeglasses. We talked of Gamma Phi Beta, of college, of Red Hook, and of the women's movement. She told me how an older friend had encouraged her to attend Syracuse and join a sorority.

Mrs. Cookingham mentioned she had known Dr. Smalley and that he had indeed helped the sisters a great deal in the early years. She was surprised I recognized his name and was impressed that the contribution he made to Gamma Phi Beta is explained to every pledge.

When I asked how many sisters had been in Alpha Chapter in the early 1900s, Mrs. Cookingham brought out a photo of her pledge class. It was a black and white portrait of 12 women in long, white dresses. Another showed the entire chapter of about 30.

As we stood facing each other, I marveled at the tie that had brought us together. I felt very proud at that moment to carry on a tradition that has lasted for so long.—Deborah Lewis (Bucknell) periences of my life was pledging Gamma Phi Beta at Epsilon Chapter just like my mother had," says Liz. "My mother never pressured me or emphasized Gamma Phi Beta, which I appreciated. The day after pledge night, she greeted me with 12 pink carnations and a crescent moon necklace which had been given to her the night she pledged."

Virginia Hill Thayer Dick (Kansas) has given an endowment to the University of Wisconsin University League, Inc. to establish a scholarship. Active in the Madison Alumnae Chapter and Women in Communications, Inc., she has been a chapter advisor and served as president of the Junior League. Elizabeth Hunter (Kansas) represented Minnesota in the Miss America Pageant. She is a music major at the University of Kansas and plans to study for an M.A. in the same field. Her goal is a career in opera. Elizabeth has received many honors and has served her chapter as PACE chairman and scholarship chairman. She is a member of Chamber Choir, University Singers, Concert Chorale and Symphony Orchestra and has performed in a number of opera workshops. Other interests are golf, skiing, tennis and dancing.

Dorothy Zimmerman Gunder-son (Minnesota) has been active in Minneapolis programs for the handicapped for many years. She organized the first Camp Fire Girls group for mentally retarded, and organized support groups for parents of the mentally retarded. Many groups have heard her speak about the subject and for 10 years she was in charge of Opportunity Workshop volunteers. She and her late husband, Bob, worked with the Minneapolis Association of Retarded Citizens, organizing legislative committees and advocating funding of programs to serve mentally handicapped people.

She still volunteers, teaching weaving on floor looms at the Workshop. "I will continue to be active in some capacity as long as they'll have me, just as I'll always be active in some capacity, however small, for Gamma Phi Beta. It is always a joyous and rewarding association as well."

Mary Beth Piel: 'The King and I'

Gamma Phi Beta Mary Beth Piel appeared in "The King and I" with Yul Brynner. (Photo by Henry Grossman)

The newest lights on Broadway in 1985 were lighted for Mary Beth Peil (Northwestern), who has just completed a run as Anna Leonowens, the "I" of "The King and I."

The story of how Mary Beth changed career goals from opera to musical theater and how she was chosen by "The King," the late Yul Brynner, is fascinating and dramatic.

A fast starter in the opera world, Mary Beth won first prize in the Metropolitan Opera auditions after college graduation and toured with the Met's national company, as well as singing a full calendar of oratorios and concerts. During the tour she met her husband, Jerry Kirkbride, a clarinetist in the orchestra, and took time out to stay home and be a mother to Michael, 17, and Gwyneth, 12. She says 10 years of babies, diapers and housework went by before she accepted an opportunity to play Alma Winemiller in the world premiere of the opera "Summer and Smoke." She created the role in 1971 with the St. Paul Opera, then played it again in 1980 with the Chicago Opera Theater where it was adapted and restaged for television. The telecast over PBS-TV two years after the taping won her national acclaim for both singing and acting.

Admitting that her opera background had made her a snob about musical theater until she realized that the roles she enjoyed most involved acting, Mary Beth began to put out feelers which led to a role in "Kiss Me Kate" in Minneapolis. "It was becoming more and more obvious that acting was taking over. At the end of a month's run as Kate, I was truly changed. It was like being born again. The years working on my voice were paying off in the role which required singing, a lot of screaming histrionics and a lot of talking. My voice got stronger every day.

By Talie McKenzie

"It was a wonderful feeling, and I had never felt that as an opera singer, always being very careful and afraid of overextending. I felt a whole shift in my physical and mental energies. I could use everything."

Her chance to play Anna came less than three weeks after she completed her run in Minneapolis. "It all happened in a 24-hour period," she says. Hearing of the audition from a friend, she sang in New York early on a Tuesday morning and by 6:30 that night was on a plane for Los Angeles to sing for Brynner, who had role approval. Although he considered four other women, she had won the part by the next day and opened in Los Angeles two and one-half weeks later.

Of Brynner she says, "I adored the man personally and professionally. He was supportive, generous and a warm co-worker. A great sense of humor. He never told me what to do. He would say, 'Ask yourself if this will work' or 'See if it sounds better this way.' And I think 'The King and I' reached maximum impact because of his maturity in the role.

Of Mary Beth, Brynner told friends she was the best Anna he ever performed with, including Gertrude Lawrence, who commissioned Rodgers and Hammerstein to create the role for her and originated it on Broadway, and Deborah Kerr, who did the movie version.

The reviewers too have been laudatory:

The Los Angeles Herald Examiner: "She lends an enchanting presence to the show. The voice is true, clear and cadenced with a civilized sweetness that would melt the coldest monarch's heart."

The Los Angeles Times: "Warm, charming, sophisticated with a lustrous lyric soprano and a way with words."

The Baltimore Sun: "Mary Beth Peil has a voice that soars . . . She is, moreover, physically stunning, so spectacularly beautiful that she takes one's breath away."

Musical theater is not easier than opera despite what one might think, Mary Beth says. "I discovered that musical theater is, first of all, more athletic, because I have to be in much better shape to do eight shows each week and be on my feet all the time with a lot of movement involved. For musical theater your power of concentration has to be much stronger to keep it fresh and just to keep it going. The most important thing you have to do on the stage is actually

*"Of Mary Beth, Brynner told friends
she was the best Anna he ever performed with . . ."*

listen to people who are talking to you to enable you to react naturally."

After her 19-month, nationwide tour with "The King and I," Mary Beth discovered her children had become more independent, learning to function on their own, and her husband learned how to cook, sew and pay bills. She learned she had a life beyond her family. The last six months on Broadway was a together time for her and her family since they live nearby in Leonia, N.J. Her husband is part owner of a travel agency and a classical clarinetist with the Dorian Wind Quintet, a New York City group that plays international concerts. He was in "The King and I" orchestra.

Now that the door of musical theater has been opened to her, Mary Beth looks forward to new musical and acting challenges and a career that can last a lot longer than that of an opera singer. "No matter how great your imagination is or how many wonderful things you can plan for yourself," she says, "it's never as interesting as what really ends up happening."

An Opportunity

Legacy Policy Survey

Grand Council has appointed an Ad Hoc Committee to study the Sorority's legacy policy. All alumnae are encouraged to express their opinions on this subject. Answers to the questions below should be sent by Feb. 15, 1986 to Teek Schonberg, 12205 Leavenworth, Omaha, NE 68154.

1. Gamma Phi Beta policy states: "A granddaughter, daughter or sister of a Gamma Phi Beta shall be given special consideration for membership by the chapter on the campus where she is matriculated. Chapters should give legacies fair and serious consideration, taking into account their background interests in and loyalty to the Sorority which could make them valuable members. A chapter is no more required to pledge a particular legacy than the legacy is required to pledge a particular sorority. it is recommended that a legacy be dropped before the set of parties preceding preference unless she will be extended a bid. If a legacy is dropped, it is recommended that notifying the grandmother, mother or sister be left to the discretion of the legacy. All legacies invited to preference are placed alphabetically on the first bid list."

How do you view the current legacy policy? State any suggestions/views/changes you would like retained or changed.

2. What effect does the policy have on collegiate chapters?

3. What special considerations would you like to see extended to legacies and alumnae?

4. List any suggestions to educate the membership about this policy.
